GREGORY WAKEMAN, FEATURES REPORTER

Who knew that puppets were so consumed by sex and drugs and just living outrageously? "The Happytime Murders" finally reveals all, while showing just how hard life can be for the seemingly adorable creatures, too. Metro wanted to learn more, though. So we sat down to talk to Phil Philips, the disgraced ex-cop who leads "The Happytime Murders" alongside Melissa McCarthy, and he talked us through what it is like to be a puppet in a human world. SECOND SPACEY SEX ASSAULT CASE REVIEWED

1 Los Angeles prosecutors said on Wednesday they were reviewing a second sexual assault case involving Oscar-winning actor Kevin Spacey. "A sex assault case was presented yesterday to our office by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department involving Kevin Spacey. It remains under review," Los Angeles District Attorney spokesman Greg Risling said in an emailed statement. Risling declined to give any details on the latest case. Representatives for the actor did not immediately return requests for comment on Wednesday. The District Attorney's office said in April that it was reviewing a case involving Spacey dating from 1992, involving an adult male. Spacey last October publicly acknowledged for the first time that he was gay. More than 30 men have said they were victims of unwanted sexual advances by Spacey, who became embroiled in controversy last year when actor Anthony Rapp accused him of trying to seduce him in 1986 when Rapp was 14. In October, Spacey apologized for any inappropriate conduct with Rapp but has not commented since.

IA STUDENT'S MURDERER IN US LEGALLY: ATTORNEYS

2 A 24-year-old farm worker charged with the murder of an Iowa college student who disappeared while jogging is in the country legally, contrary to the claims of prosecutors that he was an illegal immigrant, his attorneys said on Wednesday. Attorneys for Cristhian Rivera made the assertion in a motion seeking a gag order for his upcoming court proceedings and trial over the murder of 20-year-old Mollie Tibbetts, a case that has drawn extensive international news coverage. "The government is promoting the idea that Cristhian is not present in this jurisdiction legally," defense attorney Allan Richards said in the court documents, adding that such comments would prejudice his right to a fair trial. "Former leader of Iowa's educational system (The Iowa Board of Regents) Craig Lang has verified that Cristhian is in this jurisdiction legally," Richards wrote. "Cristhian has complied with his documented status since arriving in the USA as a minor." Representatives for U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement did not immediately respond to a request for comment on the claim by Rivera's attorneys.

HAWAII RESIDENTS BRACE FOR HURRICANE LANE

4 Hawaii residents already reeling from months of explosive eruptions from Kilauea volcano braced on Wednesday for Hurricane Lane, which was bearing down on the U.S. island chain with high winds and lashing rains and the potential to trigger flooding and landslides. Though the hurricane weakened slightly as it spun across the Pacific Ocean it remained a Category 4 storm, the second-strongest on the five-step Saffir-Simpson scale of wind intensity, according to the U.S. Central Pacific Hurricane Center. "The center of Lane will track dangerously close to the islands Thursday through Saturday," the center said in an advisory. "Life-threatening impacts are likely in some areas as the hurricane makes its closest approach." Lane was expected to begin a turn toward the northwest of the island later on Wednesday, followed by a turn to the north-northwest on Thursday. Packing 155-mile per hour winds, the storm could dump as much as 20 inches of rain over parts of the archipelago, triggering major flash flooding and landslides, according to the National Weather Service.

EX-BRAZILIAN SOCCER BOSS GETS 4 YEARS IN PRISON

5 A former president of Brazil's soccer federation was sentenced on Wednesday by a U.S. judge to four years in prison after being convicted on corruption charges related to the bribery scandal at FIFA, the sport's governing body. Jose Maria Marin, 86, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Pamela Chen in Brooklyn, New York. He was also fined $1.2 million and ordered to forfeit $3.34 million. Marin, the former head of Confederação Brasileira de Futebol (CBF), was convicted on Dec. 22 by a federal jury on six conspiracy counts, including to commit racketeering, wire fraud and money laundering. He was among the first to stand trial over what U.S. prosecutors called a sprawling scheme involving payments of more than $200 million of bribes and kickbacks in exchange for marketing and broadcast rights for soccer matches. Prosecutors said Marin received several million dollars in bribes. "We are disappointed in the length of the sentence but appreciate the judge's efforts to strike a fair balance," Marin's lawyer Charles Stillman, said in an email. "Mr. Marin will pursue an appeal."

IMPEACHMENT?

Michael Cohen, President Trump's former lawyer, said in court Tuesday that, during the 2016 presidential election, then-candidate Trump ordered him to make payments to two women to stop them from speaking about extramarital affairs with the president, in violation of campaign finance laws. Trump, White House deny wrongdoing after Cohen plea deal

The president came out swinging as usual on Twitter.

The White House pushed back forcefully on Wednesday against suggestions that a plea deal struck by President Donald Trump's former lawyer Michael Cohen implicated Trump in a crime.

"As the president has said, we've stated many times, he did nothing wrong. There are no charges against him," press secretary Sarah Sanders said at a White House briefing. "Just because Michael Cohen made a plea deal doesn't mean that that implicates the president on anything."

Cohen on Tuesday pleaded guilty to eight criminal charges of tax evasion, bank fraud and campaign finance violations. He told a federal court in Manhattan that Trump directed him to arrange payments ahead of the 2016 presidential election to silence two women who said they had affairs with Trump.

The White House's position tracked what Trump had maintained throughout the course of the day. Earlier, the president lashed out at Cohen in a Twitter post by saying the campaign finance violations Cohen pleaded guilty to in federal court in New York on Tuesday were not a crime — even though prosecutors and Cohen agreed that they were. Trump made the claim without offering any evidence.

In another tweet. Trump said, "If anyone is looking for a good lawyer, I would strongly suggest that you don't retain the services of Michael Cohen."

GETTY IMAGES

At the same time, Trump on Twitter praised former campaign chairman Paul Manafort, who was convicted on Tuesday of multiple counts of fraud, as a "brave man" for not cooperating with federal authorities.

Fox News released excerpts of an interview conducted with Trump on Wednesday in which the president said he knew of the payments made by Cohen "later on" but did not elaborate.

After first denying that he knew anything about Cohen's actions, Trump earlier this year acknowledged that he reimbursed Cohen for payments he made in late 2016 to Stormy Daniels, an adult-film actress whose real name is Stephanie Clifford. Daniels has alleged she had a relationship with Trump.

"They weren't taken out of campaign finance. They came from me."

President Trump

The president has insisted he paid Cohen out of personal funds and that the payments were not intended to benefit his campaign but to resolve a personal matter.

"They weren't taken out of campaign finance. That's a big thing," Trump said in the Fox interview. "They didn't come out of the campaign; they came from me."

Trump critics have argued the case being made by the president that the payments to Daniels and former Playboy model Karen McDougal were personal do not hold up given the timing — only weeks before the election.

"If this was a personal matter, why wasn't she paid off after the affair or in the intervening decade?" said Paul S. Ryan, the head of litigation at Common Cause. "The election was what made her story valuable." REUTERS

Several scenarios can play out next for Manafort

More drama, for sure, can be expected from the next chapter.

GETTY IMAGES

On Tuesday, President Trump's former campaign manager Paul Manafort was found guilty of eight felony charges, including bank fraud and tax fraud. The jury deadlocked on 10 other charges, so the judge declared a mistrial on those charges. But partial verdicts are allowed, so the eight convictions stand. What's next for Manafort?

A second (more dramatic) trial in a different case. In September, Manafort is scheduled to be tried on separate charges which also resulted from special counsel Robert Mueller's investigation: Failing to register as a foreign agent of the Ukraine and witness tampering. Legal analysts say that case will be much more focused on the Trump campaign's potential coordination with Russia, since it will address Manafort's pro-Russia consulting work in the Ukraine, what the Trump campaign knew about it, and what was behind a pro-Russia change in the GOP platform that coincided with Manafort's tenure at the head of Trump's campaign.

A potential retrial on the 10 deadlocked charges. Prosecutors could decide to seek to try Paul Manafort on the charges that ended in mistrial. Legal experts mostly agree this is unlikely.

Manafort could cooperate with special counsel Robert Mueller. Manafort could decide to flip and provide evidence to Mueller's investigation. In exchange, Mueller could offer to drop the second trial and have Manafort's sentence reduced on the eight convictions from his first. Although Manafort didn't work with Trump as intimately as Trump's personal lawyer Michael Cohen, Manafort could provide key details: What Trump knew about the Trump Tower meeting involving a Russian lawyer proffering dirt on Hillary Clinton, the GOP platform change, and any advance notice of Russian hacking of the Democratic National Committee, for starters.

President Trump could pardon Manafort. Trump could vacate Manafort's convictions with a presidential pardon. This would create a host of other complications: It would become a campaign issue in every Congressional midterm election this November and could become an albatross on the GOP; it would eliminate Manafort's Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination, so he could be compelled to testify before Congress; and it would not apply to any state charges that could be brought against Manafort in New York.

Manafort could appeal. Manafort has a right to appeal the convictions. Yesterday, his lawyer said he was weighing his options.

Manafort could simply be sentenced. As things stand now, Paul Manafort faces 80 years in prison for his eight current convictions. However, federal prosecutors say he will likely be sentenced to only eight to 10 years — in addition to whatever sentence could result from any convictions in the September trial. His sentencing is scheduled for Aug. 29.

What is Michael Cohen facing with guilty plea?

It was a political one-two punch for the ages.

On Tuesday, President Trump's former campaign manager Paul Manafort was convicted on eight felony charges.

Within hours, Michael Cohen, Trump's personal lawyer/fixer, pleaded guilty to several of his own, directly implicating the president in a campaign finance violation.

Both resulted from Special Counsel Robert Mueller's investigation into Russia's relationship with the Trump campaign. Manafort's potential next steps are clear. But Cohen's next move, and the circumstances behind his first, are more mysterious.

So what happens now?

GETTY IMAGES

Cohen could still cooperate with Mueller. Although unorthodox, the absence of a cooperation agreement doesn't mean Michael Cohen won't — or isn't — cooperating with Mueller's investigation. On MSNBC Tuesday night, former federal prosecutor Chuck Rosenberg theorized that Mueller's team could have orchestrated Cohen's admission as a "placeholder" before going underground until after the midterm elections. While keeping its moves discreet to avoid influencing those races, Mueller's team could then formalize a cooperation agreement with Cohen. (Cohen was technically charged by the Southern District of New York, not Mueller, but the two jurisdictions work hand-in-hand.)

He likely won't accept a pardon from President Trump. One of Michael Cohen's attorneys, Lanny Davis, said he would decline a get-out-of-jail-free card. "His answer would be no, I do not want a pardon from this man," said Davis on CNN this morning. "Under no circumstances, since he came to the judgment after Mr. Trump's election to the presidency of the United States that his suitability is a serious risk to our country. And certainly after Helsinki, creates serious questions about his loyalty to our country."

He could get 65 years in prison. As things stand right now, Michael Cohen's guilty pleas carry that maximum penalty. Because Cohen has made those pleas, there will be no trial. The judge named Dec. 12 as Cohen's sentencing date and set $500,000 bond. But any cooperation agreement could include prosecutors' request for a lighter sentence. MICHAEL MARTIN

Doctors Urge Knee Pain Sufferers

"Don't Get ANY Surgery Until You SeeThis…"

After Years Of Intense Study, NYC Medical Clinic Finally Reveals It's Best "Treatment Formula" For Helping Knee Arthritis Sufferers... Especially When So Many Other Treatments Have Failed

NEW YORK CITY - If you are even remotely interested in discovering how the latest scientific discoveries can possibly help your knee pain... then this is going is be the most exciting information you ever read.

Here is why: Knee pain can not only be brutal... it's complex. In other words, it's not a simple, easy fix.

But I'm sure you already know that. Or you wouldn't be reading this.

That's the bad news.

Now for some good news...

Over the years, NYC Pain MD has treated countless knee pain sufferers. And in that time have been able to constantly improve.

And we have come up with a treatment formula that we have found works best and helps the most patients.

This formula has reduced or even eliminated the pain in many. Some were scheduled for knee replacement surgery and felt good enough to cancel their surgery.

It's amazing when patients who were once in excruciating pain... start feeling better. And start walking again. And playing golf. Or tennis. And finally getting their lives back.

Especially when they had gone to other doctors and tried so many other things.

So many had given up hope.

Sound familiar? If it does... check this out...

The Treatment Formula

While I can't give you the entire treatment formula here (there is not enough space and WAY too complicated) I can give you the basics. And more important... I can tell you what it might be able to do for YOU.

The first and most important part of the formula is: PATIENT SELECTION.

This means, NYC Pain MD has a detailed screening process to tell who is most likely to be helped by their treatments... and who is not.

If you qualify, you have the opportunity to move forward and experience the worldclass treatments that NYC Pain MD offers.

If you do not, NYC Pain MD will tell you what they think your best options are and help you find the right doctor for you.

NYC Pain MD "Treatment Formula" A protocol of advanced medical treatments that has already helped thousands.

If you qualify, NYC Pain MD offers some of the most advanced medical treatments available today all using the most advanced imaging technology including:

- Viscosupplementation (gel injections)
- Platelet Rich Plasma (PRP)
- Stem Cell Therapy (Lipogems)
- Genicular Knee Block
- And more.

Once again, there is not enough space to go into detail about all these procedures... but here are some things you MUST KNOW....

Viscosupplementation is where a doctor introduces a gel-like medicine directly into the joint space. This helps to lubricate the joints often relieving some, most or even all of your pain. Results can last for 6 months to several years.

Many have had these treatments without good results. However, NYC Pain MD feels this is because doctors often do these "gel injections" without advanced imaging to guide them. Research shows they will often miss the joint. If the joint is missed... it is impossible for the treatment to work.

NYC Pain MD has spared no expense and used advanced imaging to guide the injections assuring the medicine gets into the joint. We frequently get results when this treatment was a failure done elsewhere.

The second thing you must know is... our treatment plans are custom made for every patent. And we have all these treatments offered in the same place. Many times you will get the best results from multiple treatments. At NYC Pain MD your doctors will all be there and will all know each other and you and your case. They work together and give you the best treatments and care without you having to go anywhere else.

The ability to select the right patients and then have the potential to give them any or all of these treatments... with all the necessary medical technology... under one roof... has allowed NYC Pain MD to get better results than they thought possible.

Here's What You Should Do Next

If you suffer with knee pain... and any of this made sense to you... NYC Pain MD would like to offer you a No-cost screening. That screening is the first step in our "Treatment Formula."

You will get to see a doctor and ask any questions you have. Your doctor will take the first steps to see if you qualify for treatments and give you recommendations.

The best thing is... you will finally get direction. You will know what's going on and what is your best course of action… step-by-step. The treatments will be explained in detail and you will breathe a big sigh of relief finally knowing what's going on and what can or cannot be done.

There is so much we want to say to help you... but I'm out of space. Give us a call at 877-296-6310 and take the first step. That step is free without obligation.

ANALYSIS

TOM FOREMAN

CNN's Tom Foreman is the author of the book "My Year of Running Dangerously."

It's not just a theory anymore. It's not just an idea that can be shooed away with bitter tweets or shouted down with "witch hunt!" The Trump White House is now in actual political and legal peril.

President Trump's own attorney (at least until recently) has admitted he broke the law to help protect Trump during the presidential campaign; that he paid-off women who allegedly had affairs with Trump to keep them silent. Furthermore, Michael Cohen has said under oath that Trump directed him to do it.

On the same day, Trump's former campaign chairman, Paul Manafort, was convicted of tax evasion and bank fraud. Of course, Trump supporters have quickly shifted into damage control, calling Cohen a liar (oh, the irony,) and saying he can't be trusted. Asked about the Cohen claim, his press secretary repeated over and over, word for word, the president's persistent claim about himself: "He did nothing wrong, there are no charges against him."

The president is additionally howling (correctly) that the Manafort conviction has nothing to do with any supposed collusion with the Russians. But those assertions are fighting to be heard over the roar of now indisputable truths.

1) Donald Trump, who has long bragged that he hires only the best people, in fact — at least in these cases — has kept close company with convicted and admitted criminals. 2) The President of the United States is now similar to an unindicted co-conspirator in a criminal endeavor, even though that doesn't mean he'll ever be officially charged, found guilty, or exonerated. 3) The Mueller investigation has produced real results, it has real teeth, and it's really not over. Not even close.

All of this has ignited a whole new firestorm of talk here in DC about the possibility of impeachment. In political terms that remains a stretch. But if the Democrats make big gains in Congress this fall, the likelihood draws considerably closer. Like I said, it's not just a theory anymore. Because truth matters. Facts matter. And right now many of them are cutting hard against Donald Trump.

Nixon demands Cuomo return $64K in donations from Trump

Cuomo's challenger rallied on Wall Street to urge the governor to return Trump donations made between 2001-2009.

NIKKI M. MASCALI

Cynthia Nixon rallied on Wall Street to urge the governor to return donations made between 2001-2009 by Donald Trump. NIKKI M. MASCALI

Activists led by gubernatorial candidate Cynthia Nixon gathered outside the Trump Building at 40 Wall Street Wednesday to demand Gov. Andrew Cuomo return prior donations he received from President Donald Trump.

Cuomo, who is seeking a third term in office and will face Nixon in the Democratic primary election on Sept. 13, received $64,000 in donations from Donald Trump between 2001 and 2009, the New York Post reported last month.

Trump, then a real estate mogul and reality TV star, gave to both Democrats and Republicans prior becoming president in 2016.

Nixon has been calling on her rival Cuomo to return the Trump donations, but when questioned at a July event in Brooklyn, the governor said, "I'm going to be deeply critical of him and keep the contributions."

Cuomo's campaign spokeswoman Abby Fashouer then said Nixon's demands were "nothing more than a cheap distraction from a campaign gasping for air. No governor has fought harder against Donald Trump than Gov. Cuomo."

Nixon reignited her plea Wednesday, just one day after Paul Manafort and Michael Cohen were, respectively, found guilty of bank and tax fraud and pleaded guilty to campaign finance violations and other charges.

"I am here to call on Andrew Cuomo to return the $64,000 he has had donated to him by Donald Trump. This should have happened a long time ago," Nixon said. "The fact that Gov. Cuomo is even considering keeping a cent from a man like [Trump]] tells us everything we need to know about our current governor."

When asked why she's focusing on donations that stem back 17 years and not current issues facing New York, Nixon said, "I spend every day talking about problems in New York. We need a governor here to oppose Donald Trump in every way."

Ava Benezra of the Working Families Party, which has endorsed Nixon, said Cuomo's refusal to return the Donald Trump donations "is an insult to women, to immigrants and to working families across New York and this country."

In an email to Metro, Cuomo's campaign aid Lis Smith said, "The joke is on Cynthia Nixon and Donald Trump. We are using his contributions to elect Democrats up and down the ticket to fight his agenda tooth and nail. New York is the antidote to Trump's America, and we will use every resource at our disposal to defeat his dangerous policies."

HIDDEN FEES ON CONCERT TICKETS ARE MAKING ME GO BROKE!

One of my best friends and I have been "show buddies" for nearly 12 years now. If there is ever a big band rolling into town, one of us jumps online to refresh sites like Ticketmaster or Ticketfly over and over as the seconds roll down to grab the best seats available. Prices for concert tickets are already absurd, but the real evil in all of this mess are the absurd service fees that these sites charge music fans for simply processing your order. I had an experience recently where I bought two $18 tickets and had a total of $15 in fees added on top of my total order. That's almost like buying a third ticket! I get it. It's not like I'm NOT going to go to the show. They have me where they want me and know a sucker when they see one. It's not like I haven't learned my lesson either. I just can't resist blowing all of my money on concert tickets. But does it really have to be like this?

And to those who are walking their dogs while using their phones; you're even worse. Do you like putting an extra life at risk since your phone is a growth to you? Your selfie can wait. Is your life, or anyone else's, worth it, since you're fascinated with yourself?

'The Happytime Murders': Phil Philips on life as a puppet

A quick and dirty chat with the "disgraced ex-cop."

GREGORY WAKEMAN
Gregory.Wakeman@metro.us

"The Happytime Murders" is not for the faint of heart.

Packed with sex, drugs and murder, most of which involves puppets who co-exist with humans, the Melissa McCarthy- and Phil Philips-led comedy revolves around the pair trying to track down a serial killer that is murdering the cast of the 1980s television series "The Happytime Gang."

I know what you're thinking: How does a puppet pull the trigger on a gun? Do they have opposable thumbs? Aren't their hands just full of fluff?

But what you should be asking is: Who is Phil Philips? Well, we recently had the chance to interview the disgraced ex-cop who is now a private investigator, and he talked us through "The Happytime Murders," his career and life as a puppet.

Did you always want to be a police officer?

Oh, yeah. Ever since I was a little blue puppet running around the schoolyard, I knew I wanted to be a cop. I used to catch kids cutting in the lunch line and arrest them with a pair of plastic handcuffs I got out of a cereal box. But then I had to let most of them go because I never read them their Miranda rights, which I didn't even know were a thing. And also I couldn't read. But back then the idea of a puppet being an actual cop with the LAPD was absurd. They'd never let a puppet join the force before. I was the first, and it was historic. Of course, I was also then the first puppet cop thrown off the force, so really I'm a trailblazer in two ways.

Who were your biggest influences as a detective growing up?

Well since there were no actual puppet cops — as I mentioned before, I was the first, it was a pretty big deal — I had to look at TV detectives that kinda looked and acted like puppets. My favorite was Kojak. Telly Savalas totally looked like a puppet, and he was always chomping on lollipops. As you know, sugar is like crack to puppets. Literally, they're a drug for us like crack. So seeing a detective always getting a sugar fix was pretty exciting.

A peak behind the scenes at what makes Phil tick.

What's the main difference between puppets and humans?

Huh. It's probably the anatomy placement. With humans, you always know where everything is. An arm is always where an arm is supposed to be and boobs are always where boobs are supposed to be and what not. But with puppets, you never know what you're gonna get, sometimes with arms and boobs all over the place.

If you could have one human body part, what would it be?

I guess it'd be a liver. We puppets are easily addicted to sugar, it's a real problem for us. I eat two Twizzlers and next thing you know I'm on a weeklong sugar bender to Tijuana. I'd love to be able to just sit back and enjoy candy like the humans do. Maybe finally have one of those cronuts everyone is always raving about.

How many takes were needed for the sex scene?

Needed. 1. How many did I ask to do? 69. Ha. Get it? 69? It's a joke because of the sexual position. You get it, right? I have a book back at my office, I'll show you. The Puppet Sutra. It's got some pretty wild stuff in it.

Rob Riggle explains how 'Ski Master Academy' came to be

The comic and "Daily Show" alum's Sony Crackle series was originally just a joke.

ANDREW HUSBAND
letters@metro.us

If you tell comedian Rob Riggle that his original series, "Rob Riggle's Ski Master Academy," is "crazy," he will sincerely thank you.

As the official logline for the Sony Crackle show describes it, "celebrity patriot Rob Riggle, who is mostly known for his legendary ski master movies, has invested all of his money and reputation into an Academy celebrating America's truest art form… personal watercraft riding."

This is, of course, an exaggeration, because the real Riggle has never starred in a series of "legendary ski master movies," though it would be awesome if he had. But this kind of ridiculous and absurd comedy styling is precisely what the "Daily Show" alum does best. It's also what he was going for with "Ski Master Academy," which he claims began as a throwaway joke.

"The way it originated was a bit to to screw around with people who would always ask me what I was working on. I just got tired of telling people what I was working on, so I started telling people I was thinking about opening a jet ski academy," says Riggle. "I would say it with a very serious face, and I wouldn't wink and nod. People would always leave very confused, like they didn't know if I was really going to do that or if I was kidding. I used to get a kick out of it, but then I started wondering if I could build a show around it."

To repeat Riggle's own words about the show concept, "it seems so absurd and obnoxious." And yet because of this, as well as the creative team's emphasis on improvisation, "Ski Master Academy" managed to attract a wide array of comedy and acting talent. Fellow improviser Paul Scheer stars in the series, but so does Dermot Mulroney, Eliza Coupe, David Arquette, Cheech Marin and a host of others from all sides of the entertainment spectrum.

"We picked people who we like because life's too short to do it any other way," Riggle explains. "We picked people that we thought were talented, and that would be enjoyable and fun, and who got what we were going for. We found those people and they got on board. A lot of them are personal friends from projects I've worked on before, or people who had worked with friends of mine.

"We picked people who we like because life's too short to do it any other way."

"We didn't have a whole lot of money," he adds, "so we had to call in favors, and that's what I did. I called in a lot of favors. I know these people personally and I know they're funny. That's kind of how we went about selecting everyone."

"Ski Academy" debuts Thursday on Sony Crackle.

Interpol maintain their cool with intense new album, 'Marauder'

Drummer Sam Fogarino talks about the band's new album and the key to their longevity.

PAT KING

Interpol have always maintained the right kind of cool. As one of the original bands included in New York City's return to rock in the early 2000s, they helped to usher in a new golden age of guitar-centric bands that inspired a generation of kids to lace up Converse low-tops and play blocks of Joy Division songs on their local jukeboxes.

But unlike certain bands of that era, Interpol never saw the same frenzy of press coverage and were allowed to evolve in their own universe while maintaining a devout following. On Friday, the band will release their sixth record, "Marauder," on Matador records with a world tour to follow.

Recorded by producer Dave Fridmann directly to tape, the new record finds the band playing with the intensity of a group cutting their first album. Songs like the first two singles "The Rover" and "Number 10" showcase the same angular post-punk guitar work that made the band so captivating while creating a sense of urgency.

Singer Paul Banks' stern delivery and lyrical imagery cut through as strongly as ever, while his guitar interplay with Daniel Kessler adds shape and atmosphere to each song. Behind it all is drummer Sam Fogarino and his pounding rhythms that send these new songs into the red and to dizzying heights culminating in a record that is best representation of Interpol as a live band. According to Fogarino, this all just kind of happened during the writing stage of "Marauder."

"I think it just kind of happened naturally," he says, "I had been listening to not necessarily aggressive music but more stuff that was recorded more live than digital. Old soul like Diana Ross, Otis Redding and Al Jackson … it all had this aggression to it. You could pump your fist or hit the dancefloor"

Perhaps a key to the band's longevity is that they have always strived to reach different sounds on each of their records. According to Fogarino, each member of the band brings different influences to the table and as a result, it can make for much different results than were initially intended.

"Everybody in the band taps into that vein with our own personalities separately in some way," he explains, "What happens now and what makes the band good in what we beg or borrow from is each of us are doing that separately and then coming together. I would never tell the guys that I was inspired by an old Phil Collins song, but if I implement the vibe and extract something that they might not be aligned with it helps to create something completely different. Paul may be influenced by a hip-hop structure, but he's not going to start rapping in an Interpol song. That would be ridiculous."

Fogarino also believes that not tied to that time period may have hurt them initially, but has led to their long fruitful career.

"I kept thinking 'This is a good thing, man.' To be on the fringe of a thing and not totally in the heart of it like the Strokes or other bands like that is a better thing. Being associated with that time is going to be highly perceived around the world, for better or for worse. You'll be able to go down your own path instead of going away with the time period. If you're able to transcend another decade then that's just something that excelled you to independence. That's where we got lucky."

The band will be touring extensively including a free record release show at Brooklyn's House of Vans on Friday and a huge hometown show at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 16.

What's new at the 2018 US Open

We preview all the changes and what the expect at next week's tournament.

EVA KIS

Queens is the place to be at the end of each August when the largest tennis tournament in the country returns to the USTA Billie Jean King National Tennis Center. The US Open 2018 brings over 250 of the tennis world's biggest stars to New York from Aug. 27 through Sept. 9; off the court, there's plenty to see, eat and do throughout the tennis village, which just finished its $600 million renovation. Here's everything you need to know about what's new at the US Open for 2018.

A whole new main court
Torn down after the 2016 US Open, the Louis Armstrong Stadium is now a gleaming new addition to the tennis complex. The second largest venue behind Arthur Ashe Stadium also has a retractable roof and room for 14,000 fans. You'll also find the tournament's largest gift shop here.

You'll want to be at the opening night ceremony
US Open 2018 kicks off with a star-studded night honoring two of tennis' most famous female players, the 1968 women's singles finalists Billie Jean King and Virginia Wade, followed by a short concert from Kelly Clarkson. R&B singer Maxwell will perform the national anthem.

Test your tennis skills in augmented reality
American Express has created the tennis version of Pokemon Go. Super Rally is a "hybrid reality tennis" where you get a tutorial from Venus Williams on using a special racket to hit virtual tennis balls in augmented reality that bounce off physical targets that exist in the real world.

Sample the star-studded food scene
The US Open starpower extends to its food, from big-name chefs to trendy food trucks. New this year, longtime tournament chef David Burke tries his hand at Mexican food with Angry Taco inside the new Louis Armstrong Stadium, Dean & Deluca in the South Plaza food court will be serving up healthier grab-and-go sandwiches like a turkey club made with seaweed, and joining the roster of celebrity chefs with a presence at the tournament is Harlem's JJ Johnson. You'll also find a new Cold Brew Bar (with "a variety of flavor options") in the back of its the Lavazza Café in the Food Village.

Unwind at a rooftop bar
Appropriately named Overlook at the US Open, the Chase Center's new lounge has an indoor buffet and beer/wine bar, plus a rooftop terrace overlooking both main stadiums. Select tournament subscribers have access, or email usopenhospitality@usta.com to buy passes. Within is the ultra-exclusive 1968 Room (as in, you have courtside seats) with its own menu, cocktails and private roof deck.

Call a historic match
It's the tournament's 50th anniversary, with nostalgic exhibits throughout the grounds. One fun activation is a booth where you can voice your own play-by-play of historic matches, then share them on social.

The official cocktail gets a twist
In case you didn't know, the US Open has its own cocktail, the Honey Deuce, made with Grey Goose vodka, lemonade and raspberry liqueur, garnished with three honeydew melon balls meant to resemble tennis balls. While the drink hasn't changed, it does now come in the season's trendy format: frozen. Find it at the Grandstand bar, served in a commemorative cup for $20.

More Legoland than ever before

The Northeast is getting the world's largest Legoland — here's everything you need to know.

EVA KIS
eva.kis@metro.us

The Northeast hasn't had a new theme park in decades, but all that will change with the arrival of Legoland New York in spring 2020.

Located in Goshen — about 60 miles northwest of New York City — the $350 million theme park will be the largest of Merlin Entertainments' nine Legoland parks all over the world, with eight playlands spread over 150 acres featuring family-friendly rides, larger-than-life Lego sculptures and live performances.

A trip Legoland New York is about two hours by car from the heart of the city. There will also be direct bus via ShortLine Coach USA from the Port Authority Bus Terminal.

The park will be seasonal, open from April until November. Admission prices have not been announced.

The Dragon Coaster will be a kid-friendly thrill.

Legoland New York is meant for a younger audience, specifically for families with kids 12 and under. "For those who may only be familiar with our indoor Legoland Discovery Centers, a Legoland Park is on a different scale altogether," says Legoland rep Matt Besterman. "This 150-acre theme park is a multiday experience, with more than 50 rides, shows and attractions, all designed for kids ages 2-12 and their families."

Eight areas themed to iconic Lego sets will make up the park. The site will be spread over 150 acres, but the total area of Legoland spans 500 acres.

"We really want our guests to feel like they're in a park within a park," says Julie Estrada, head of PR for North America at Merlin Entertainments.

Here are the eight lands that make up Legoland New York:

The Factory: Your visit begins by building the Lego world. The all-new Great Lego Adventure ride will take visitors through the manufacturing process as if they were a Lego Minifigure.

Bricktopia: Described as "the land with no rules," here's where you'll get to join Master Builders to make your own Lego creations. The Imagination Celebration ride is Lego's take on the spinning teacups, or get on the Stepping Tones to make your own soundtrack.

Ninjago World: Enter the Training Camp playground to start mastering the art of Spinjitzu, then help defeat the Great Devourer on Ninjago: The Ride, a 4D adventure.

Heartlake City: Meet up with your Lego Friends on the outdoor stage, then take a ride in a balloon over Pinefall Woods or a turn on the carousel. This is also where you'll find Legoland's signature Granny's Apple Fries.

Knights' Kingdom: Step into a life-size Lego Castle with knights, princesses, wizards and a kid-friendly Dragon Coaster.

Lego City: Learn to be a firefighter at Rescue Academy or hone your street skills at Lego Driving School, plus restaurants, and theater and much more.

Pirate Shores: Hope you like life at sea because there are two boat rides in this pirate-themed land: the Rogue Wave Riders where you do battle with water cannons and Anchors Aweigh, a giant ship that swings and spins.

Miniland: Feel like a giant in the land of the Minifigures! Walk among a massive interactive display of attractions from all over the country gathered in one place, with interactive features and moving parts, even a working subway! (Hold your jokes, please.)

3 Things to watch for in Giants, Jets 'Snoopy Bowl'

WILL SAM DARNOLD START?

The Jets rookie quarterback looks slated to be the starting man under center come Week 1 after a solid showing over the first two weeks of the preseason. He's completed 21-of-39 passes for 158 yards with one touchdown and one interception.

Those numbers aren't going to necessarily jump off the page, but teammates and opponents alike have gushed about his poise in the pocket and an ability to make the tough throws which has apparently put him ahead of veterans Josh McCown and Teddy Bridgewater on the team's depth chart.

If Darnold starts, and he is expected to, it shows head coach Todd Bowles' intent to start the 21-year-old USC product against the Detroit Lions come Week 1.

ELI NOT GETTING OFFENSE BACK

This will likely be Giants veteran quarterback Eli Manning's final game before the start of the regular season, presenting one final important opportunity to get most of his full-strength offense together.

However, the chances of getting Odell Beckham Jr., Sterling Shepard, tight end Evan Engram and running back Saquon Barkley together doesn't look good. Manning was without Beckham for 12 games last season and did not get to work with him during his brief, seven-attempt outing in Week 1 of the preseason.

It is unknown if Beckham will play but Barkley will not be available despite returning to practice on Wednesday after dealing with a hamstring injury. The first time Manning could have his full offense intact could very well be the regular-season opener against the Jacksonville Jaguars.

BIG NAMES RETURNING FOR JETS

Week 3 of the preseason could bring the debuts of some notable names for the Jets. It won't come a minute too soon, either.

Second-year safety Marcus Maye could make his way back to the field for the first time since suffering an ankle injury in Week 17 of the 2017 season against the New England Patriots. He is expected to continue developing his partnership with fellow safety and budding leader Jamal Adams.

On the offensive side, wide receiver Quincy Enunwa could be seeing the field for the first time since suffering a neck injury following the 2016 season. Two years ago, he showed flashes of becoming the team's next star playmaker, accruing 857 yards on 58 catches with four touchdowns. JOE PANTORNO

With the Viagra Patent About to Expire, a New Sex Pill Takes the Spotlight

A patented pill costing less than $1 a dose stands to help millions of men with failing sex lives; no prescription will be required

By Ray Wilson
Associated Health Press

AHP – A new sex pill is set to take the spotlight with the Viagra patent about to expire. But unlike the former, it won't require a prescription and is priced just under a $1 a dose.

The new pill called Vesele is part of a new class of performance enhancers for men, which work instantaneously on the body and mind triggering arousal and firmer, harder erections.

Formulated with a special compound known as an "accelerator", Vesele can transport its active ingredients faster and more efficiently into the blood stream, where it begins to work its magic.

The patented ingredient blend initiates a process known as vasodilation, which causes arteries and vessels throughout the body to expand. This allows blood to flow directly to penis and genitals, resulting in harder erections which last longer. Cialis and Viagra are based around a simlilar concept.

But what makes Vesele so remarkable, and what these other sex pills can't do, is that also directs a small portion of this blood flow to the brain, which creates feelings of intense arousal. In laymen's terms, users become incredibly excited and turned on.

This is why the makers of Vesele say their pill has worked so effectively in clinical trials. It stimulates the two most important organs for great sex, the penis and the brain.

The Brain Erection Connection

Until now, medical researchers did not fully understand the brain-erection connection. It has now been made clear with Vesele. When both are supplied with a constant blood flow, men are harder and firmer for longer...and have unbelievable sex drives.

"Most of the research and treatment methods for men's sexual failures have focused on physiological factors and have neglected the emotional ones. For the leading sex drugs to work, like Cialis and Viagra, you need visual stimulation" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the creator of Vesele.

"And although they work for some men, the majority experience absolutely no fulfillment during sex.

According to research published by the National Institute of Health, 50% of men taking these drugs stop responding or can't tolerate their side effects...and on top of that they spend $50 per pill and it doesn't even work half the time.

This is what makes Vesele so different and effective. It floods the blood stream with key ingredients which cause arteries all over the body to expand. The patented accelerator speeds up this process even more.

The result is a rush of blood flow to the penis and brain, helping to create an impressive erection and a surging desire for sex. Often, this is all men need to get going. And when taken regularly, many men say they are energized and aroused all day."

Great Sex At Any Age

With the conclusion of their latest human clinical use survey trial, Dr. Esber and his team are now offering Vesele in the US. And regardless of the market, its sales are exploding.

Men across the country are eager to get their hands on the new pill and according to the research, they should be.

In the trial above, as compared to baseline, men taking Vesele saw a staggering 85% improvement in erection hardness over a four-month period. Their erections also lasted twice as long.

These same men also experienced an astounding 82% increase in the desire for sex (libido/sex drive) and an even greater improvement in overall satisfaction and ability to satisfy their partners.

Many men taking Vesele described feeling horny and aroused through the day. The anticipation before sex was amazing. They were also easily turned on. Their moods were more upbeat and positive, too.

Faster Absorption into the Blood Stream

Vesele is made up of three specialized ingredients: two clinical strength vasodilators and a patented absorption enhancer often called an accelerator. According to an enormous amount of clinical data, each is very safe.

Research shows that with age, many men lose their desire and interest in sex. They also struggle to produce an erection firm enough for penetration.

And although there are many theories as to why this happens (including a loss in testosterone) one thing is certain, inadequate blood flow is virtually always to blame. That's why sex drug manufacturers focus on blood flow, it makes your erection hard.

But what's more surprising, and what these manufacturers have failed to consider, is that lack of blood flow can also kill your sex drive. That's because blood supplies energy for the brain. This energy is required for creating brainwaves that cause excitability and arousal.

Studies show the Vesele stimulates the entire cardiovascular system, including the arteries that lead to both the brain and penis. The extreme concentration of the ingredients combined with the accelerator ensures that this process starts quickly.

The sexual benefits of Vesele are also multiplied as its ingredients build up in the system over time. This is why many men take it every single day.

Expiring Patent Opens the Door to a New Sex Pill: Vesele is a new pill that cost just $1 a dose does not require a prescription. It works on both body and mind to increase arousal and erection hardness.

Recent Studies Show Positive Effects on Women

In the same study referenced throughout, Vesele was also shown to have an amazing (and somewhat surprising) effect on women too. That's because the same arteries and vessels that carry blood and oxygen to the brain and genitals are the same in men and women.

"In our most recent study, women taking Vesele saw a stunning 52% improvement in arousal and sex drive. Perhaps more impressive, they also experienced a 57% improvement in lubrication.

You can imagine why some couples are taking Vesele together. Everything feels better. Everything works better. Everyone performs better. It's truly amazing."

A New Frontier of Non-Prescription Sex Pills

With daily use, Vesele is helping men (and women) restore failing sex lives and overcome sexual lets downs without side effect or expense.

Through a patented absorption enhancer, the Vesele formula hits the bloodstream quickly, resulting in phenomenal improvements in erection firmness and hardness. By boosting blood flow to the brain, users also experience sexual urges and arousal they often haven't felt in years.

FANTASY FOOTBALL DRAFT ADVICE

OPINION

BILL DUBIEL

Bill Dubiel is a fantasy football expert at Rotoballer.com and Metro.us

Welcome back fantasy football fans! We're drawing ever closer to Week 1, and it's time to start getting ready to chase another championship. Don't forget to check out Rotoballer.com for all of the tools you need to get the edge on your league mates.

Tate top dog in Lions den

Golden Tate has quietly been one of the league's top wide outs for nearly half a decade, and his current fifth-round ADP doesn't exactly reflect that. As the top volume target in an underappreciated offense, Tate has shined with 1,000-yard campaigns in three of the last four seasons, notching at least 90 receptions in each of the last four. He's averaged just about five touchdowns in that time frame as well, and while that number certainly doesn't scream "elite," you're not looking for elite at that point in your draft. Tate's consistency is tough to find, and with all of the major variables still in place (most specifically Matthew Stafford remaining in his prime), there is no reason to expect a significant drop-off from Tate in 2018. Being able to rely on a receiver for eight to 10 targets and six to seven catches a game week-in and week-out is something that should not be dismissed casually, and is a reason Tate should be circled on your draft board heading into this season.

Opportunity for Crabtree

Michael Crabtree is now in Baltimore after a successful stint in Oakland, and he should be able to return value on his current seventh-round ADP with his new team. Crabtree is coming off back-to-back-to-back seasons of eight or more touchdowns, and he spent much of that time as the theoretical No. 2 in the Oakland offense (Amari Cooper being the de facto No. 1). Crabtree is now the unquestioned top receiver for Baltimore, with only the oft-injured John Brown any real threat to that title. I fully expect Crabtree to be able to replicate his touchdown production from recent years, and he should be able to take a big step forward in the volume category as well. If he's able to see at least 130 targets this season (a number he should hit with ease), Crabtree should be a nice mid-range WR2 for the year, and makes for a rock-solid value pick in the sixth or seventh round.

Joe Mixon is still very much an RB2. GETTY IMAGES

What to make of Mixon?

Joe Mixon is undoubtedly talented. The 22-year-old certainly impressed in his rookie season last year, which was highlighted by his 165-yard outburst in Week 4 against the Browns. In that game, Mixon received 23 carries and hauled in three passes for 51 yards — and never saw that workload again. Unfortunately for Mixon, the Bengals remain committed to the dynamic Giovani Bernard as a major player in the offense, and deservedly so. Bernard is a capable dual-threat running back who shines in the passing game, and he clearly has the trust of Andy Dalton. While Jeremy Hill is no longer in the mix to take carries away from Mixon, Bernard's presence simply can't be ignored. Mixon will definitely make for a fine RB2 most weeks, but his current ADP doesn't come close to matching the output he's going to produce — he's currently going off the board as early as the late-2nd round. I'll be passing on Mixon at that price and instead look for an alternative with much less risk, like Adam Thielen, T.Y. Hilton or Mike Evans.

Draft sleepers

Bilal Powell, RB, New York Jets
With both Isaiah Crowell and Elijah McGuire banged-up, Powell may finally get the opportunity to start a season with the lion's share of touches. He has always been productive when he's actually given the ball, so he could be a great value pick in the late rounds.

Michael Gallup, WR, Dallas Cowboys
Allen Hurns and Cole Beasley are not going to hold off this talented rookie for very long. He's the only receiver in Dallas with WR1 potential, and he'll prove that sooner rather than later.

Chris Godwin, WR, Tampa Bay Buccaneers
Don't let the depth chart fool you–Godwin is the receiver with breakout potential on the Bucs. He should pass DeSean Jackson in short order, and has WR3 potential in 2018.

BIG3 returning to Brooklyn for championship game tomorrow

For the second-straight year, Ice Cube's BIG3 basketball league comes to Brooklyn. This time though, it's in an even bigger way.

After hosting the first-ever set of games last summer, the Barclays Center will host the BIG3's championship game between Power and 3's Company.

The three-on-three league's 2018 season will draw to a close on Friday night (8 p.m. ET) with some familiar NBA faces set to take center stage one more time in the Big Apple.

Power head coach Nancy Lieberman is not only a WNBA legend but is the current assistant coach of the Sacramento Kings. Her efforts with Power earned her BIG3 head coach of the year earlier this week.

She leads a team of former stars that features Chris "Birdman" Andersen, Glen "Big Baby" Davis and league MVP Corey Magette, who ranks third in the BIG3 with 16.9 points per game and fifth with 7.1 rebounds per game.

They'll be facing a 3's Company team that was the original headlining member of the BIG3 after securing Philadelphia 76ers Allen Iverson as its poster child last year.

However, a quick and unsuccessful playing stint was followed by a coaching tenure that ended at the start of the 2018 season when he quit due to scheduling conflicts.

Regardless, the team managed to make the championship game behind head coach and Los Angeles Lakers legend Michael Cooper. Both Baron Davis and Andre Emmett are averaging over 15 points per game this year while Emmett ranks in the league's top six in rebounds, assists and steals. JOE PANTORNO
